Message from the Executive Direction

Dear All:

Thank you for joining us for another year in our work to strengthen Civil Society!

The year 2020 brought upon us a global health, political, economic and social crisis that had a strong impact on CSOs' capacity for taking action. However, it has also shown us the great adaptability and resilience of the sector, and the unavoidable importance of networking on the other.

From RACI, we have not only been able to facilitate spaces for meetings, thought, training and support, which are essential to face this challenging year, but also to increase our outreach and support to more organizations in Argentina, Latin America and the Caribbean. Within the framework of virtuality, we have been able to carry out multi-stakeholder events, with the presence of panelists and experts from all over the world. We facilitated a space for dialogue with UN Argentina, contributing to the construction of the strategic framework for International Cooperation of Argentina for the period 2021-2025. We also conducted events on resource mobilization, trainings on transparency and accountability, webinars on Diversity and Inclusion, among other workshops that provided relevant inputs for the sector. In addition, we co-managed different funds and presented Civic Perspective on COVID-19, a study that allowed us to identify the situation of organizations and to act based on reliable information. Although the pandemic kept us at home, RACI expanded and managed to consolidate RACI Canada, an organization that will allow us to work more effectively in Argentina and throughout the region.

Despite the difficulties that arose in the wake of the pandemic, we once again found ourselves with a resilient and creative Civil Society that has managed to reinvent itself to overcome adversity. We hope that this new year finds us more united, active and stronger than ever!

End of the year campaign

#ArticulateTo Strengthen

RACI carried out this campaign aiming to review the monumental work done by Civil Society this year, taking into account the importance of articulation and networking culture. With the contribution of more than 15 member organizations, content was created and shared through RACI's social networks to make the work of CSOs visible and promote the importance of working together. It consisted of short videos submitted by network members, who commented on the challenges they faced this year and how networking helped to overcome them.

Support and partners: Banco Galicia, CREA.

Co-Creation Workshop

Building more diverse and inclusive organizations

This workshop focused on a critical and introspective view of the third sector on the issues of Diversity and Inclusion. We believe that our duty as Civil Society is to continue to amplify voices globally, particularly the perspectives of the most marginalized, and to continue to challenge exclusion. This implies first looking inward, into our own organizational cultures, to interrogate and re-evaluate whether our leadership practices, policies and behaviors meaningfully integrate diversity and inclusion into our workplaces or not, and whether these organizational cultures reflect the communities we serve and advocate for or not.

Estimad@s:

Frente a la pandemia de COVID-19, hemos estado presenciando la respuesta activa de una sociedad civil que se preocupa por comunicar responsabilidad y por adoptar medidas para proteger la salud y el bienestar de todos. Además de las adaptaciones operativas que se están llevando a cabo, dada la cuarentena y el distanciamiento social mandatorio, muchas organizaciones también han desarrollado comités de crisis para generar planes de contingencia y pensar en las distintas posibilidades para el desarrollo de recursos a mediano plazo: la energía está enfocada en pensar alternativas. Esta situación somete a la sociedad civil a una gran presión financiera, ya que la ha obligado a posponer y cancelar proyectos, viajes, eventos y actividades, a la vez que los fondos se redirigen para encontrar respuestas a la crisis que surge a partir del coronavirus.

Por este motivo, vemos la necesidad de hacer un pedido especial a los donantes y a los intermediarios que apoyan a la sociedad civil: requerimos flexibilidad para utilizar las subvenciones, certidumbre y estabilidad para poder seguir realizando nuestra labor en estos momentos de restricciones, dudas y desasosiego. La sociedad civil siempre ha sabido mantenerse viva y enérgica, es el sector que se caracteriza por su resiliencia, pero necesita, más que nunca, de su ayuda para continuar haciéndolo. Recomendamos que entablen conversaciones con los beneficiarios, los escuchen y los ayuden a pensar en adaptaciones para los proyectos. También, pueden ofrecer flexibilidad en cuanto a los plazos de pago y aprovechar para simplificar procedimientos burocráticos, dejando mayor espacio para que las organizaciones puedan continuar con su labor.

A nuestras organizaciones miembro, las acompañamos y celebramos su capacidad de adaptación ante estas circunstancias, que les permite seguir cumpliendo un papel esencial en nuestra sociedad. Desde RACI, seguiremos trabajando para fortalecer a la sociedad civil y promover un espacio habilitante propicio, de manera que nos sumamos al pedido de gobernantes, instituciones y organismos de distintas partes del mundo para que enfrentemos la crisis de manera solidaria, promoviendo la cooperación y entendiendo nuestra responsabilidad como actores fundamentales para sobrellevarla. Cómo enfrentemos esta crisis definirá nuestra manera de pensarnos como sociedad en el futuro.

Contamos con tod@s ustedes,

With the onset of mandatory isolation, RACI felt the need to address donors so that they would comprehend their fundamental role at the time and redouble their commitment to Civil Society.

Innovation for Change (I4C)

What is I4C?

Innovation for Change is a global network of people and organizations that want to connect, partner and learn together to defend and strengthen civic space and overcome restrictions on our basic freedoms of assembly, association and expression. RACI is part of the Regional Executive Committee, along with Alianza ONG (Dominican Republic), Grupo Faro (Ecuador) and Youth Against Violence (Guatemala). From this network, we lead activities, initiatives and events to strengthen organizations in the region.

2020 was a peculiar year for all of us, we had to be resilient and adapt our activities to the new realities and challenges faced on a regional scale. In this sense, RACI held virtual assemblies with its members to know more about their situation. We also developed a Strategic Planning process to reflect on the objectives and actions carried out by the Center with a view to 2021.

I4C Activities

Webinars

From I4C, RACI organized a series of webinars to share tools and generate spaces for dialogue between organizations in the region on issues that became relevant in the context of the pandemic.

I4C Activities

CoCreamos, Collaborative-Culture Festival

The CoCreamosFest (<https://2020.cocreamos.org/>), the first collaborative culture festival in the region, was organized by Ouishare and co-organized by the Latin American and Caribbean Regional Center for Innovation for Change, was held on December 2-4, 2020.

The main objective of #CoCreamosFest was to generate spaces of encounter, connection and inspiration, with noteworthy content about collaborative culture and its challenges, in order to explore and co-create an annual showcase of collaborative culture. The milestone of the event was the co-creation of a Manifesto for Collaborative Culture that gathered the shared vision of all participants, which serves as the bedrock on which to continue working to contribute to the co-construction of a sustainable present and future.

Network Innovation: collective impact for civic space

On January 13, 2020, Guillermo Correa, Executive Director of RACI and member of the Regional Executive Committee of Innovation for Change (I4C) Latin America and the Caribbean, participated in Washington DC in the event "Network Innovation: collective impact for civic space". The objective was to share real and innovative experiences carried out by the I4C network in politically restrictive spaces, stories of how local and regional activists managed to strengthen and defend civic space in each region.

Welcoming New Members

As every year, RACI opened its membership during the month of May. We virtually welcomed the 14 organizations that decided to join and start networking!

Administrators' Group Meetings

From our members, new spaces for joint work arise...

In 2020, the Administrators' Group was inaugurated. It emerged as an initiative of the network's members (bottom-up growth) and aims to discuss possible strategies in relation to the administration and finances of the organizations. Structured around bimonthly meetings and with a collective and co-created agenda, the network's administrators set out to share best practices, strategies and tools to be able to act in the best way in the face of an unprecedented scenario.

Thus, in 2020, the group met 6 times: in January, April, May, July, September and November.

National Dialogues: Multisectoral Unconferences

In a time of constant change and uncertainty, RACI sought to organize unstructured spaces for dialogue that would enable the exchange of information and ideas among participants and representatives of the different sectors related to sustainable development. In this way, we thought about the mobilization of resources for organizations from different angles, joined by a group of experts made up of local and international professionals. On the other hand, these unconferences were carried out with an innovative methodology, where the voices of the participants were truly heard: they were the real protagonists and decision makers of the agenda.

Local Social Private Investment Directory 2019 Edition

After a year and a half of research carried out with the support of the National Ministry of Development, this publication compiles relevant information on the main actors in local private social investment (ISPL) in the country.

The Directory compiles more than 360 files with profiles of companies and foundations: work themes and SDGs supported, type of support provided, target population, provinces in which they have actions and contact information. It also contains an preliminary analysis on the situation of the ISPL in the country, the private sector and its relationship with the SDGs, the relationship between access to funds and the enabling space for organizations, etc. With a strong focus on the 2030 Agenda, and fulfilling the triple function of making the actions of the Private Sector visible, but also demanding accountability, as well as democratizing access to information that promotes the sustainability of organizations, the ISPL Directory has become an invaluable tool for the Social Sector.

Publications and studies

Civic Perspective on Covid-19

Due to the pandemic and mandatory social isolation, RACI decided to focus its annual perception survey on analyzing the impact of these changes on organizations and their working communities. With the aim of generating a reliable diagnosis of the sector's current state and a relevant input for advocacy, the survey was opened between April and June of this year. In August, the results were presented in a virtual event and we are currently working on the publication of the digital and physical version, which will be available next February (2021). We are also working on the regional version (Latin America and the Caribbean) of the Perception Survey, to be launched in 2021.

Creation of the Covid-19 Observatory

Also due to the extraordinary events of this year, RACI's Research Area, together with AGNA, decided to monitor the situation of Civil Society organizations in the face of the pandemic. It was first circumscribed to the Latin American region, later to be opened to the whole world. To this effect, we formed a team of young researchers-practitioners, with different social - related majors and from universities from all over the country and the world. We gathered information about the context in which organizations act- and their enabling space - and what have been their main challenges in the context of the pandemic. We will continue working on the Observatory throughout 2021, aiming to produce relevant information on the state of Civil Society at the international level, invariably stationed at our particular location and Latin American perspective.

Publications and studies

Completion of the survey and update of the Service Guide of CABA Organizations.

This project, which was supported by the General Directorate for the Strengthening of Civil Society, within the Ministry of Human Development and Habitat, of the Government of the City of Buenos Aires, completed its survey phase. This enabled us to update the database of more than 1,000 CSOs working in CABA. They were incorporated to the following RACI platform. Information on the services which the organizations provide to the community was added too. We are currently in the process of preparing a report containing the main characteristics of the organizations and their services. We hope to be able to share it with you in 2021.

Completion of survey on public resources for social organizations at national level

This project was supported by the National Ministry of Development and consisted of a survey about the resources (both financial and non-financial) available to social organizations at the national level (in the 23 provinces and CABA). The large database generated over more than two years of survey is being processed and we will publish the main findings in a report to be presented in 2021.
